

REPUBLICAN SOCIALIST YOUTH MOVEMENT

Everyone, Republican or otherwise, has their own particular part to play. No part is too great or too small; no one is too old or too young to do something."

-Bobby Sands

The Republican Socialist Youth Movement is a revolutionary socialist organisation that owes its allegiance to all the normal working people throughout Ireland. We believe that the current political and economic establishment is set up to cater for the interests of a tiny elite class in society, namely, the bankers, developers and speculators who have in turn held this country's economy to ransom.

Our goal is to establish a society that is more compatible with the needs of the Irish people as a whole, to educate and radicalize the young people of Ireland and to give the Irish youth an opportunity to become active on all the issues that directly effect their lives. With unemployment rampant in Ireland today the future looks uncertain for young people, we would call on them to put their thoughts into action and join the RSYM to help make a difference.

The RSYM is completely anti-imperialist, and much like the current occupations of Iraq, Afghanistan and Palestine we oppose the continued occupation of Ireland. We see the only solution to the institutionalised sectarianism and the exploitation of workers in the North as being a 32 County Socialist Republic, with people of all creeds united against their true enemy, capitalism and British Imperialism. We will continue to fight for a country that is run by the people and solely in their interests.
