Home Tax Unfair and Immoral

The new 'Household Charge' is both unfair and immoral. It's unfair because everyone is expected to pay the same amount regardless of their wealth or income. And it's immoral because the public money it generates will be used to pay off the private gambling debts of the bankers and property developers. Our hospitals and schools are closing so that their private banks can stay open!

€100 is Just the Beginning

While the Dublin government claim the home tax will cost 'only €2 a week', even they admit that this figure will soon increase dramatically. Current plans will see a 'property tax' and domestic water tax replace the €100 home tax in 2013/2014. These new taxes will cost around €1,000 per year. That's roughly €20 per week! And it is virtually certain that there will be no widespread waivers for these taxes.

Don't Register! Don't Pay!

When the government bailed out the banks, introduced the Universal Social Charge, increased VAT and slashed public services and social welfare there wasn't much that you could do about it. For the first time you can now fight back against the 'austerity programme' of the government and the Troika. So what do you have to do?

DON'T REGISTER your home, even if you are eligible for a temporary waiver

DON'T PAY the Household Charge

DON'T BE INTIMIDATED by the government's empty threats

Is cáin éagórach agus mhímhorálta é an 'Táille Tí' nua a úsáidfear chun na baincéirí agus na forbróirí príobháideacha a tharrtháil. Cé nach gcosnóidh sé 'ach' €100 do 2012, athchuirfear é le cánacha réadmhaoine agus uisce faoi 2014. Ansin beidh ar an ngnáththeaghlach €1000 a íoc in aghaidh na bliana i gcánacha teaghlacha. Don chéad uair is féidir leat troid in aghaidh 'cláir dhéine' an rialtais agus na triúrachta. NÁ CLÁRAIGH don Táille Tí. NÁ ÍOC as an Táille Tí. NÁ BÍODH IMEAGLA ORT ag bagairtí folamha an rialtais. Bí páirteach sa troid. Bí le éirígí
